Miss Ida Scowcroft

On the committee arranging for the Junior prom to be given at the Weber Normal college auditorium, Friday evening, April 18, is Miss Ida Scowcroft, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Heber Scowcroft and Stanley Rhees and John Croft, members of the Junior class. The committee has been working to make the party this year quite the prettiest given for some time and it is expected that over five hundred persons will attend. The alumni of the school and the student body will probably be present almost in a body and there will be outside guests. The auditorium will be decorated for the event with the class colors and other novelties and refreshments will be served. The affair promises to be the stellar event at the school.

CLUB Calendar

500 Club.
Mrs. Frank M. Driggs was hostess to the ladies of the 500 club at her home last Tuesday afternoon and a very pleasant time was enjoyed by all. Mrs. Driggs entertained her guests at cards and followed with a nicely prepared luncheon. Mrs. W. D. W. Zeller will be hostess to the ladies at their next meeting on Saturday.

Historical Club.
On April 5th Mrs. Christianson of Capitol avenue was hostess to the Historical club. Mrs. Kabell gave a most interesting paper on "The World Out-Doors—Planting, Gardening, Etc." The subject was especially appropriate at this season and Mrs. Kabell gave many helpful suggestions, as well as inspiring all present with a wish to serve. The paper was followed by a most interesting and animated discussion and many phases of civic improvement which would add greatly to the attractiveness and health of fair Ogden were considered. The need of still making use of all vacant lots for raising vegetables was emphasized, conservation still being the watchword of all loyal Americans. Following the discussion, Mrs. Mason gave current events in her usually happy manner and this closed the meeting.

Will Stanton, Charlie Chaplin and Rosalind May

Will Stanton, Charlie Chaplin and Rosalind May, taken at the Hollywood Studios, Calif., March 11, 1919. Will Stanton, who appears at the Orpheum this week in a riotous act

E. Read, C. Redfield and J. L. Whitaker. Mrs. C. W. Iverson will be hostess to the club Wednesday, April 23.

Blind Students Entertain Large Number With an Operetta and Chorus

The chapel at the School for the Blind was all too small for the accommodation of the interested audience attending the operetta and chorus given last evening by the Handel chorus of the school and under the splendid direction of their capable instructor, Miss Ivine Shields, but even though a few were compelled to stand throughout the presentation, they were fully paid for their inconvenience, for the blind students entertained with a highly classical program.

The first part of the program was an operetta and a rather difficult one; Eduardo Marzola's "The Golden Sickle." In this the little folks and older students appeared and each knew her part perfectly and sang in clear voice. The program was all prepared in the daily class work of the students. Their vocal work is especially commendable when one considers the fact that nearly all of the children were monotonous when they entered the school and through individual work they have been enabled to sing. Many possessed very clear voices and their pronunciation was exceptional. Even the smallest child knew the words and notes of all the songs in the operetta and chorus which followed. The folk songs were the arrangement of Louis Victor Saar and were quite difficult, so much depending upon the interpretation. The songs have been sung several times by some of the latest societies in Chicago and were considered very difficult for the blind students. Much credit is due to Miss Shields for her wonderful work and last evening following the performance she was showered with sincere felicitations by all those fortunate enough to reach the platform. Miss Shields played the accompaniment for the entire operetta and chorus during the evening.

Following is a list of the characters in the operetta and the synopsis:

Characters
Hildegard—The Queen...Laverne Jeffs
Elsa—Daughter of the Queen...Genevieve Lamb
Raymond—Nephew of the Queen...Dewell Wheeler
Flora—Queen of the Garden Fairies...Tessie Newton
Mother Witch-Hazel—A Wise Woman...Lois Anderson

Hedwig...Ruby Wheeler
Eda...Katherine Anderson
Fairies...Tessie Newton, Mary Elmer, Laverne Jeffs, Louise Duder, Maud Wheeler, Ruby Wheeler.

Argument
When Elfrida shall gain possession of Elsa and her companions, she shall rule the land of Hildegard, the queen. Elsa and her companions play in the garden, tossing a golden ball. Suddenly the ball flies across the hedge into the garden of Elfrida. The children, seeking the ball, fall into the power of the Witch.

In her trouble, Hildegard appeals to the flowers for help. Queen Flora advises her to consult old Mother Witch-Hazel, who knows all enchantments. Mother Witch-Hazel tells her that if the hedge which bounds Elfrida's garden be cut down, the enchantment will be at an end. The hedge can be destroyed only with the "Golden Sickle of Fairyland."

There is great rejoicing among the fairies when this is told, because this sickle is in their keeping. They hasten to give it to the queen, that she may attain skill in using it.

Raymond, nephew of Queen Hildegard, comes bringing tidings of the kingdom, and a letter from Mother Witch-Hazel telling the queen that the hour for action is at hand. The queen cuts down the hedge, thus freeing the children. Flora crowns Hildegard amid general rejoicing.

Scene 1—Garden of the palace.
Scene 2—Enchanted garden.
Scene 3—Same as scene 2.

Friends Are Invited to Easter Dancing Party at Berthana

The ladies of Miriam Chapter No. 14, Order of the Eastern Star, with members of the Masonic club have perfected arrangements for the Easter dancing party to be given in the Berthana on April 22 and the committees have made some splendid arrangements which will insure success for the event to which all members of all the Masonic orders with their friends are invited. Because of the event the ladies of Miriam chapter have postponed their regular monthly afternoon tea which would ordinarily be given on Monday, April 21.

A SURPRISE PARTY.

A pleasant surprise was given for Master Ray Hansen, Thursday evening, when several friends met at his home at 1824 Grant avenue. The evening was spent in dancing and vocal selections were given by several. Various games were played.

Those present were Wilbert Harpster, Raymond Shipley, Eddie Butterfield, Lawrence Crosby, Bernhard Jensen, Paul Wright, Oliver Hansen, Jim Silva, Raymond Thomas, Ray Hansen, Misses Sada Parry, Alice Butterfield, Verna Shipley, Virginia Hansen, Elsie Dalton, Levan Woods, Ida Silva.

DELIGHTFUL PARTY FOR MR. AND MRS. ELDON S. BASSETT.

Mr. and Mrs. Eldon S. Bassett were the honor guests at a dancing party given in the University club last evening to which over sixty of their friends were invited. The party was a most delightful one and was given by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Pardoe and Mrs. W. E. Bassett. Mrs. Eldon S. Bassett was Miss Ruth Pardoe before her marriage last month and she as well as Mr. Bassett has numerous friends in Ogden as well as in the capital city who were present last evening.

Splendid music was furnished for the dancing and tempting refreshments were served. For those who did not care to dance card tables were arranged and altogether the evening was one of unusual enjoyment.

Mr. and Mrs. Walker Scott Cheesman were host and hostess to a number of their friends at a dinner party on Monday evening last. The party was a most enjoyable one.

Mrs. Frank Peterson will be hostess to the Browning section of the Ladies' Literary society of Salt Lake City next Wednesday.

Lieutenant and Mrs. William Anderson Corn, left Ogden last Tuesday for Portsmouth, New Hampshire, where Lieutenant Corn will be sent out on board a steamship.

WASHINGTON SCHOOL BOYS PLAY HOOKY AND ARE BROUGHT BEFORE JUVENILE COURT

Many Ogden citizens were delightedly surprised last night at the wonderfully clever dancing and acting of the second grade pupils of the Washington school in an entertainment given in the Ninth ward meeting house for the benefit of the Sunday school of the ward. The children ranged in ages from 7 to 8 years, but their acting was on a par with the best amateur adults.

During the performance there were many calls for the teacher, Miss Norma Taylor, who had trained the children in the parts and dances of the fairy story, "Hansel and Gretel," who were supposed to have been lost in the woods. Miss Taylor had taken the story from the school text books, read and rewritten it into a children's play. Many of the dances, of which there were forty mostly set in the fairy scene, were such as are ordinarily given to students of high school and college. This, however, did not prevent the little tots from giving a wonderful exhibition, for they carried out the dancing with charming grace and with the parts they were playing ever in mind. In fact the children seemed to live their parts, with a fidelity to art which would be creditable to professionals.

One of the cleverest of the little tots was Evangeline Cook, who acted as a solo dancer and was so clever that the audience was captivated.

On the bill were a number of specialties, among them Buster Goodman, who was dressed like a soldier and sang with great delight to the audience, "I Hate to Get Up in the Morning." An amusing incident occurred during Buster's turn. Many people were unable to get into the house and a large number of the children who lived and played as neighbors with those acting were also outside. The youngsters peeked through the windows, and while Buster was singing some chum called, "Kill 'im dead," just as Buster was killing the bugger about the fourth time, to please the audience.

Ruth Jackson and Oscar Browning also won great favor by their rendition of a duet, "If You Will Marry Me." Little Wilson Stevens, who is not in school and is aged about 3 years, sang "Beautiful Katy" in a manner that aroused much enthusiasm.

The play took so well that it will be presented again tonight to accommodate those who could not get in to see it last night. It was also suggested that some one should take interest enough in home talent to show Ogden citizens what they have with them by giving a performance of the play and dancing in one of the theaters.

Miss Norma Taylor taught the pupils by a method of her own, which seems to have been very successful. She was assisted in the stage direction by Miss Helen Taylor, another teacher at the Washington school. There were many calls for Miss Norma Taylor to appear before the curtain, but she did not come out.

Thirteen boys were before Judge Dan Sullivan of the juvenile court this morning on various charges of delinquency. Two of the boys were up for playing "hooky" from school. The truants were also accused of using tobacco. They were roundly lectured and ordered to report again next Saturday.

Nine boys were up for riding bicycles on the sidewalks. They were lectured and fined the sum of $2 each. Judge Sullivan says the practice of riding on the sidewalks must cease. One of the boys had injured a little girl by running her down with his wheel. The judge intimated that he will be severe hereafter with those who violate the city laws by riding on sidewalks.

Two of the boys were up for speeding their automobiles. One of them, the son of a prominent family, was deprived of the privilege of driving a machine for one month. At the end of that time he must report and will be given permission to drive a car again if his behavior in the meantime is good. On a second offense, Judge Sullivan announces, the privilege will be taken away for a year. The other case is still under investigation.

As to Speeding
In commenting on the speeding cases this morning Judge Sullivan said: "It is such cases as these that are the most difficult to deal with. Traffic Officer Dick says you two boys were trying to assist Contractor Moran tear up North Washington avenue. Your fathers are rich and you have automobiles as playthings. But you will find that the laws will apply to you some way to make you respect them. You are not hurt by a fine. That doesn't get under the skin, because you simply pay the fine, smile and walk from this court room. But if you are forbidden to drive your cars for a stated period, you must suffer some mental anguish. And until you learn to drive your cars according to the law and the rules of safety, you cannot drive them at all."

Both young men pleaded that they would drive carefully hereafter. "All right," said the judge, "we'll see if that is sincere."

NEW DIRECTOR OF THE AMALGAMATED

Stephen L. Richards of Salt Lake will succeed L. R. Eccles as director with the Amalgamated Sugar company. The change was announced at the election of the directors. The other members of the board were re-elected.
